Community relations board fails to investigate facts: Altman

By JEFF BROWN

BELLE GLADE—The Palm Beach County Community Relations Board's recommendations to the county commission concerning housing in Belle Glade were "very good ones," but the board should have checked to see if the city was undertaking any of those projects before it went before the commission, according to Mayor Thomas L. Altman.

"We don't appreciate the way the Community Relations Board conducted their business," said Altman. "They're more interested in putting on shows for the press. Three of the four recommendations we're already doing."

The board made four recommendations to the county commission concerning the housing situation at slum areas in the city.

It recommended the city establish a task force to review code violations, particularly in the area of SW Fifth through SW Eighth streets, an area board members call the "snake pit."

According to Altman, the city started to review and revise its building code over a year ago. He said the old document was "too unrealistic ... not enforceable."

He said Housing and Planning Director Remar Harvin is currently working on developing a code which can be enforced, and added that a recommendation by the state's housing and development director's coalition could be the answer.

According to Harvin, the coalition is working on developing a uniform housing and building code.

"It may be just what we need," said Altman.

"I'm sure some good ideas will come out of it." In the past, the city had relied on the state's Hotel and Restaurant Commission to enforce code violations because it had more power and was further removed from the political process, said Altman.

He said the city is taking a larger role in the process because the state cannot keep up with it.

"It's obvious that buildings are not being kept up," said Altman.

The board also recommended to the county that the city expand its west boundaries for development of private housing.

"That's not a bad idea, but property owners in the area have to be involved in that," said Altman.

He added that the city has already taken steps in that area by annexing and developing the Sugar development.

In that area, the city bought the land, developed it and sold the land, at a loss, to give individuals a chance to own houses and move into them.

"Not only did we expand the western bound-dary, we even bought the land and actually developed the lots," said Altman.

Altman also agrees with a recommendation by the board that the city adopt the concept of a private industry council to attract industry other than agriculture.

The city has been working towards setting a vehicle to attract other industries for over a year, said Altman. Among the areas under study are the Urban Development Action Grants and the industrial revenue bond programs.

A fourth recommendation by the Community Relations Board was that the city undertake more rehabilitation and construction in the Osceola and Okeechobee Housing Projects and invite the Okeechobee Housing Project into the city as an annex.

The housing projects are both operated by the Voters go to polls for primary Tuesday

Area voters can go to the polls Tuesday from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. and vote in the 1982 primaries.

Reapportionment has put every state and United States legislative seat up for grabs this year.

On the Democratic ballot, 31 candidates and their running mates will appear. 33 Republicans will appear on the GOP ballot.

United States Senate

Lawton Chiles, the incumbent, is running unopposed for the Democrat nomination for the United States Senate, so his name won't appear on the ballot.

His opponent will be chosen by Republican voters from a three man field consisting of David H. Bludworth, Van B. Poole and George Snyder.

United States Congress

Glades voters will be represented by the United States 12th Congressional district. Two Democrats and two Republicans have filed for their respective party's nominations.

In the Republican race, State Senator Tom Lewis is pitted against former-astronaut Al Worden.

The winner of that race will have to campaign for the seat against the Democrat's nominee.

The Democrat voters will have to choose between Dennis Koehler and Brad Culverhouse.

Governor

Three candidates have filed to run for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Bob Graham and Lt. Governor Wayne Mixson are running for their second term. They are opposed by Fred Kuhn, who's running with Jeffrey L. Latham as his Lt. Governor nominee, and Robert P. Kunst. Kunst's running mate is Gary Bryant.

Two teams have decided to make a stab at winning the governorship on the Republican ticket.

Skip Bahafis is on GOP ballot with running mate Leo Callahan.

They are opposed by Vernon Davids and Wendell Davids.

State Cabinet

Two men are vying for the Democratic nomination for Attorney General. Jim Smith is opposed in his reelection bid by Fred Goldstein.

In the race for comptroller, Ralph Haben is opposed by Gerald Lewis.

State legislature

In the race for state legislature seats, the only race is on the GOP ballot, where Tim Bearson and Jo Ann Currier oppose each other for the nomination in the 28th district.

There are no other contests for the local state

City election cancelled

BELLE GLADE—For the first time in the city's 54 year history, a lack of competition in all the municipal government races has resulted in the cancellation of the election.

Thomas L. Altman, running for his fifth consecutive term since being elected to the city commission in 1974, and Charles Goodlett, who is seeking his second term, will be automatically re-elected when the September 14 polling date arrives.

According to City Clerk June Boglioli, the election will not be held and the candidates will be considered to have voted for themselves.

State law permits the cancellation of the election when there is no declared opposition, according to Boglioli.

The cancellation will mean a saving of about $1,800 to the city, she added.

NO ONE WAS INJURED when this Monte Carlo, which was idling in a driveway Tuesday morning, jumped into reverse and entered the canal across the street. The automobile is owned by Vivian Nathaniel Davis of 1348 SW Avenue G in Belle Glade. Davis said he was checking the transmission fluid when the incident occurred.

Man drowns, 2 rescued

BELLE GLADE—A Clewiston man was recovered Sunday from Lake Okeechobee after two females were rescued from a water tower, according to Det. Steve Haller of the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Office Glades Substation.

John H. Collet, 43, of 834 E. Concord Ave., was the victim.

According to the Sheriff's report, two friends of Collet, Kathy Chancy, 16, of 28 W. Osceola St., and Sandra St. John, 17, of 503 W. Obispo, both of Clewiston, went boating about 4 p.m. Saturday.

When their boat failed to return to the Clewiston Marina, police were notified. A check of the local marina was made at approximately 7:45 a.m. Sunday for the trio. Lt. Hugh Smith of the Hendry County Sheriff's Office spotted the two women clinging to the water tower, while flying over the lake.

He notified Randy Mullen, a Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission officer, who rescued the two women and found Collet's body.

Chancy and St. John told officials they were participating in water sports in the area of the tower and had gotten out of the boat into the tower when they noticed the boat was drifting away. The trio jumped into the wind-whipped water, but were unable to retrieve the boat. They then tried to swim back to the tower, but Collet didn't make it, the report said.

Collet's survivors include his wife, Cheryl Collet of Clewiston.

Following an autopsy by the Palm Beach County Medical examiner office the body was turned over to the Atkin/Davis Funeral Home of Clewiston.

Inmate talked into giving up

BELLE GLADE—Glades Correction Institute inmate Tim Rinner after having escaped from a work detail Monday evening near West Technical Education Center was returned to custody shortly after he escaped.

Rinner, who was serving 15 years for burglary was cutting grass near West Tech on S.R. 7 when he skipped detail.

According to GCI Supt. Robert Turner, Rinner

Water treatment estimate discussed

By JEFF BROWN

BELLE GLADE—The actual price of the planned water treatment plant may overrun the estimate by about half a million dollars, but engineers assigned to the project to the Belle Glade City Commission Monday, August 30, that the number of bidders on the project is very drive the cost down.

"We had very good interest from the contractors and we're still hoping for some very competitive bids," said Bob Elefritz of Briley, Wild and Associates.

Elefritz and John Cummings, the project manager with the firm, told the commissioners that increases in the costs of concrete and major equipment, including a items necessary in the ozone process could drive up the cost.

The original estimate of $1.7 million could be driven up to $2.25 million.

Elefritz said part of the problem lies in the fact that the engineers are trying to utilize old equipment by rehabilitating it.

"We can estimate much closer the cost of an all new facility than a partially rehabilitated one," he said. "We tried to utilize everything that was available."

He and Cummings recommended that the city not take any drastic action until the bids on the project are opened September 23.

"If we think a cost overrun is possible, isn't it better to do something about it now?" asked Mayor Thomas L. Altman.

Elefritz said that about 20 "prime contractors" had bid on the project already and at chances ere very good that the costs may come lower than expected anyway.

He recommended against asking each bidder to submit an addendum to the bid listing possible cuts that can be made.

"You scare a prime and his price goes up," said Elefritz, adding that a hasty move could scare the bidders.

Elefritz and Cummings both said the highly competitive bidding has hurt the firm's ability to determine prices on certain items and areas because suppliers are less open.

"We've been real good at getting all of competition," said Elefritz, "but it's choked off all of our information sources."

Cummings said it would be better to accept the bids as they are and negotiate with the low bidder if there is a cost overrun.

"If you got 30 days before you open the bids, I hate to spend all of time worrying about something that might never come to be," said George Goforth.

"I don't see no need to pay them to come up with alternatives that we might not need," he added.

The commissioners also heard reports on the proposed improvements to the sewage treatment plant at the Monday night workshop.

According to officials of Briley, Wild and Associates, Inc., the Department of Environment Resources had turned down half of the requested hook-ups for 715 Trailer Park.

It had also rejected outright the hook-up of a

Belle Glade Housing Authority, an independent agency, which has recently started a rehabilitation and rebuilding project estimated by Altman to cost about $5 million.

Altman said the city couldn't annex the Okeechobee project if it wanted to because it is not contiguous with any city boundaries, a requirement by state law.

It is bordered on the north by state road 80, which is city in the city limits for police protection purposes only, but state law prohibits annexation of property connected to city limits only by corridors such as that, according to Altman.

Altman said he would be against annexation even if it were permitted by the state.

"I would be against it because of the economics of it," he said. "It would be totally irresponsible for the commission to annex that project."

When a city annexes land, it expects to acquire a tax base in exchange for the services it will be expected to supply, he said. The project would be exempt from property taxes because it is run by the tax exempt authority.

"Admittedly there's been a lack of code enforcement," said Altman, "which is a result of the huge complexities of the code. We have to make some provisions for the people affected by code enforcement."

"Some of those conditions are bad, but it's better than being on the street," he added.

Community Development, under Remar Harvin, is attempting to develop some housing resources to house people whose homes are being repaired or replaced, Altman said.

Altman said he was never informed or involved in any of the hearings on the housing problem in Belle Glade, but added "I wouldn't have gone anyway. I'll meet with anybody, but I object to their format."

He said the hearings usually serve as "a soap box for Florida Rural Legal Services."

Rabbi Alan Sherman, the chairman of the Community Relations Board, said he had not had any contact with the mayor and was unaware that any action was being taken in the area.

"We've had a number of meetings," he said. "We have invited city officials, none of whom have attended."

He refused to comment on any of the actions Belle Glade has taken, saying that it was just "bearsay" and that he has never been notified of the actions.

"My only concern is that they take this seriously," he said. "No excuse legitimizes this. Just because this problem has been around for a long time is no reason for it to continue."

legislative districts. Voters in this area vote for a candidate in the 28th state senate district and the 81st state house district.

County Commission

In the county commission races, four people have filed for the district two nomination on the Democratic side and two on the GOP.

Democratic voters will have to choose from Ruby Leola Bullock, Frank H. Foster, Ken Spillias and F. Xavier Sullivan.

The less crowded Republican field consists of Robert A. Kaeding and Art Walner.

In the district four race, four candidates have qualified, two in each party.

The Democrats have put forward Sol Roth and Dorothy Wilken, and the Republicans have advanced Malcolm Bird and Norm Gregory.

Port of Palm Beach

There are two races for Port of Palm Beach Authority seats, both of them in the Democratic primaries.

In group four, Blair Cikin is pitted against Ronald A. Robiner for the nomination.

C. Ben Holleman is running against Richard Sulman for the group five Democrat nomination.

School board

Voters in each primary will also get the chance to vote in the non-partisan school board elections.

Eleven candidates have filed for the four seats. Three candidates have filed in the district two primary: Marshall Jenkins, Robbie T. Littles and Hugh MacMillan, Jr.

In district four, three candidates are pitted against one another: Thomas M. Coburn, Louis J. Kassa and J. Albert Howell.

Sally Beach and Barbara R. Perry are challenging incumbent Susan R. Pell in her bid for reelection in the district five race.

Robert S. Howell and Mitch Mannin are competing for the district six seat.

Tax referendum

A tax referendum will also appear in the ballots of both primaries.

The Tourist Development Tax of one percent, if approved, would be levied beginning October 1 on any living quarters in hotels, apartments, trailer camps or rooming houses that are rented for six months or less.

In January 1984, that rate would be increased to two percent.

The revenues would be used for development of tourist and cultural activities.

City election called off

In Belle Glade, the September 14 municipal elections have been cancelled due to lack of competition.

Mayor Thomas L. Altman qualified as the only candidate in his bid for re-election. In the only other race, Commissioner Charles Goodlett was the only qualified candidate.

He was running for his second term.

State law permits the city to cancel the election if there is no opposition in the race.

Altman and Goodlett will automatically win reelection to the city commission.

development planned by two private developers in the northwest end of town. The developers in that instance had shown 84,000 gallons per day produced from the development, and the department will probably approve that application if the request is lowered to about 8,000 per day, according to the engineers.

In other business, the commission:

- Authorized the city attorney to turn over to the Palm Beach County Solid Waste Authority the bill of sale to a bulldozer that it sold the authority earlier this year.

Gov.'s advisory committee to meet at GCI

BELLE GLADE - The Governor's Advisory Council on Corrections will be holding a public meeting at Glades Correctional Institution today and Friday, according to GCI Superintendent Robert V. Turner.

Twelve of the 14 members of the council will tour the facility in the morning and hold a meeting Thursday afternoon.

Friday, September 3, the group will meet in the morning, according to Turner.

The authority needs the bill of sale to trade the dozer in for a new one.

It is currently being held by three payment on the old bulldozer, according to Finance Director Frank Anderson.

Goforth said he was against turning over the bill of sale until the payments, totalling $1,666.66 each, were brought up to date.

"I don't want us to hold this up, but it's kind of ridiculous that they get behind in the payments by three months and then want a bill of sale for it," said Commissioner Charles Goodlett.

"Realistically, we are part owner of that operation out there," said Altman.

"That would be okay if they realized that too," said Goforth. "But they want it to be a one way street."

The city will turn over the bill of sale with the understanding that any delinquent payments will be subtracted from the city's tipping fees as the transfer station.

- Agreed to consider a proposed change to the city's alcohol beverage code which would permit consumers to purchase beer beginning at 5 a.m. during the week. Beer cannot be purchased between 3 a.m. and 7 a.m. during the week now.

According to Altman, fishermen often like to purchase beer before going out on the lake to fish early in the morning.

managed to elude approximately 37 officers searching for him for 90 minutes after he quite cutting grass.

Turner said Rinner was reported missing around 4 p.m. He was captured at approximately 5:30 p.m. at West Technical Educational Center.

Turner said GCI Assistant Supt. Jerry Arline and two other officers returned to West Tech and found an employee of West Tech talking to Rinner.

The employee had talked Rinner into not running any further, according to Turner.

County commissioner's aid housed by county

CANAL POINT - Mike Saunders, the administrative assistant to County Commissioner Bill Bailey, is living rent free in a county owned dwelling at a Canal Point park in exchange for part-time caretaker duties he has assumed at the park.

According to Saunders, in exchange for the free rent on the house, he has to serve as a caretaker, turning lights on and off at night and watching for vandalism.

He has to pay all utilities on the 750 square foot, one bedroom dwelling.

The county had been seeking someone to move into the house for some time, he said, but hadn't been able to find anyone.

The county requires a full-time county employee live in the house.

The Community Center is located at the park where the house is located.

Man faces drug charges

BELLE GLADE - The Belle Glade Police Department is seeking a local man after a search of his apartment uncovered a quantity of marijuana and pills, according to Detective John Carney.

John Charles, 35, of 335 1/2 Avenue E apartment 109, is charged with the sale of marijuana and possession of marijuana in excess of 20 grams, both third degree felonies, said Carney.

His apartment was searched at about 10:15 p.m. Monday, August 30 when a search warrant signed by Judge Don Adams was served.

Police found one pound of marijuana, numerous "nickel" bags of marijuana and a quantity of pills in the apartment along with an undisclosed amount of money, said Carney.

"This is one facet of the investigation," he said, adding that the investigation has been underway for about two weeks.

Charles is also facing a charge of possession of lottery tickets because a handful of tickets were found in the apartment at the time of the search, according to Carney.

Carney was assisted by Detective Norman Hevey and Fernando Sainz, both of the Belle Glade Police Department, in the investigation.

Student council officers elected

BELLE GLADE -- Elections of student council officers at the Christian Day School have been completed and 19 student representatives have taken office, according to school officials. Tavi Garcia has been elected President and Juan Armas Vice President. Other officers are: Secretary Debbie Thompson, Treasurer Brenda Rowland, Parliamentarian Anna

Hernandez and Chaplain Alice Nelms. Latangela Coleman and Lamar Weathers represent the senior class and Kimberly

Chamblee and Mate Figueiras represent the junior class.

Representing the sophomore class will be Raul Cepero and Carlos Rodriguez.

Three individuals represent the freshman class: Joni Busbee, Evelio Garcia and Tina Treadway.

Eighth grade representatives to the council will be Stacey Bohannon and Audra McDaniels, and Ashley Perry will serve for the seventh grade.

Saint-Cyr to speak on Lutheran Ministries

Ms. Marie Marthe Saint-Cyr, a native of Haiti, who has resided in the United States since 1966, will be the speaker for Community Services Council meeting on Wednesday, September 8th, at 12:30 P.M., Bryant Auditorium, Glades Office Building. She will speak on the work of Lutheran Ministries of Florida in the Glades. Ms. Saint-Cyr has a B.A. Degree in International Affairs, a Master's Degree in Social Work from the University of Pennsylvania, and nine years of experience in direct services supervision and administration.

One of the topics she will discuss will relate to the rental of the Katherine Price Foundation home for the purpose of housing volunteers who will provide services to Haitians and migrant workers, thus continuing the spirit of Katherine Price in her efforts with human service. Invitations are extended to the Glades communities to come and hear about the present and upcoming services provided by the Lutheran Ministries of Florida. Other agencies will present short reviews of their services provided to the citizens of the Glades.

Permit drawing in september

TALLAHASSEE -- The random drawing for antlerless deer permits on state wildlife management areas will be held the last week of August with permits to be mailed in late September, according to the Game and Fresh Water Commission.

The deadline for hunters to have submitted the applications to be included in the drawing was August 6. The time lapse allows wildlife biologists and management specialists to conduct deer density surveys as close to the hunting season as possible to determine the number of antlerless deer to be harvested.

Hunts list filled

TALLAHASSEE -- All special hunts listed on the special hunt application for state wildlife management areas have been filled, according to the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission.

The Commission had expected to allow hunters an additional opportunity to apply for unused permits after September 10. However, Eddie White, quota hunt coordinator for the Division of Wildlife, said all the hunts had been filled through the first applications.

Perspective

Community relations board acting irresponsibly

The Community Relations Board is acting irresponsibly again and Belle Glade is bearing the brunt of it.

Every couple of months the board travels 40 miles to the west of its coastal domicile and "inspects" the southwest area of Belle Glade, an area its members like to call the "snake pit."

The result of this whirlwind tour is usually coverage in coastal media of the board's members decrying the poor living conditions in the area and lamenting the failure of the city to do anything about.

The board members never talk to local city officials, elected or non-elected, to see if anything is being done, or, if not, why not.

In the most recent instance, the board didn't even bother to come out here. It just asked the county commission to ask the city for stricter code enforcement.

At a workshop session, the board of commissioners obliged and tentatively approved the measure.

The Community Relations Board, established in 1980 after the riots at Liberty City in Miami, is supposed to promote fair treatment and equal opportunity among all members of society.

If it takes its mission seriously, it should be interested in finding out just what is being done in problem areas before it starts making recommendations.

It hasn't done that.

If it had, its members would have known that three of the recommendations it gained the commission's tentative approval on were already being worked on by the city government.

The city had been reviewing its building codes for the past year in an attempt to make them more enforceable.

It has also been working on setting up a mechanism to attract industries other than agriculture for over a year.

Not only did the city expand its western boundary, it also bought and developed the land and sold it, at a below break even level, to help people purchase homes.

The Community Relations Board should also examine the feasibility of its recommendations more closely.

It didn't.

If it had, its members would have known that the city was prohibited by state law from annexing the Okeechobee Housing Project south of the city because it is not contiguous with the city's borders.

We believe that the Community Relations Board is more concerned with appearances than with actually helping people.

It wants to make it appear to the public that it is doing its job and helping people, while actually not doing any of the work necessary to do anything constructive.

The board members criticize without having checked for explanations or even to see if they are wrong.

Their attitude is best summed up by their chairman, Rabbi Alan Sherman, who said "No excuse legitimizes this."

If that is the case, perhaps the same could be said for areas in West Palm Beach. Perhaps the same could be said for almost any city in Palm Beach County with slum areas.

We never get to read about those areas. The Community Relations Board is probably unconcerned with those areas.

Maybe it's a "question of motivation and will and moral position."

JIM JONES

BOILER PLATE

It's people that make all the difference

Sometimes, I feel like that demanding cottage cheese maker who has the little dog nipping at his ankle.

At other times I feel like the man in the swamp trying to protect his southern flank from the the alligators.

These feelings may not be unique, whether we make our living as businessman, cowboy, or gorilla tamer.

Every line of work has its own frustrations and rewards. I would be the last to covet some one else's job, because I believe the grass is not always greener on the other side.

I think what I enjoy most about the newspaper business is the people we meet. Without the stimulation of working with people, the general public as well as our staff, the job would be a big zero.

Take our staff for instance. It's interesting what this business will do to a person. It gets into the blood and brings out things in a person they might not have even known was there.

I always like to talk about our editorial staff, because it is the backbone of any paper.

If you don't have a dedicated editors and writers willing to put in more than an 8 to 5 day, you don't have much of a newspaper.

I am proud of the editorial staff we have assembled for the three newspapers Hardee, Newsweek and the Herald-Observer.

At The Clewiston News, we have Bill Bryant and Glen Gifford, two recent graduates of the University of Florida. Bill joined us in April. He has a major in Journalism and a minor in agriculture. I was sold on him when he told me he couldn't wait to get to Clewiston "to chew the tobacco" with the farmers here. I knew he would fit right in.

Glen has been with us only a few weeks, but already he has shown promise of good things. One night we stayed here till 4 a.m. putting together a paper, and there was never a complaint. That's dedication.

At the Herald-Observer, we have Jeff Brown and Alma Henry. Alma has been with the newspaper more than five years — about one week longer than me in fact. Alma can tell you about those "late night meetings and the weekends spent pasting up graduation supplements.

Jeff has been with us slightly more than a year now and I have to say that he is one of the brightest, most promising talents I have encountered here. He is tremendously valuable to us.

In Moore Haven at the Glades County Democrat we have Ailsa Dewing, who combines a smooth and creative writing style with a wry and unpredictable sense of humor. Her columns are enjoyed by so many that we run them in all three newspapers.

Behind every reporter there is a bookkeeper, paste up artist, ad representative and pressman. If I described all of these, it would take up more room than we can spare. But I will mention a few more.

We have a dynamic duo in our composing room named (no, not Batman and Robin) Mary Faye Walker and Ron Calhoun. These are two I can always count on to give there best and to stay until the job is done. I appreciate it gang, even though I might not always give that impression. And lastly, we have Steve Dupree, better known as Scooby, who can do everything from run the press to deliver newspapers. Scooby is another of those who has been here five years and I don't think a week has gone by that he hasn't said he was going to quit at least once. But he keeps turning up. When he quits saying that he is going to quit I'll start getting worried.

Overworked and underpaid the lot of them are. But unless I seriously miscalculate, they all love it. There is something to this business.

Letters Policy

We solicit and encourage letters to the editor.

Our guidelines are simple:

- No libelous content.
- Letters should be relatively brief — no more than 300 words as a general rule.
- Signatures are required.
- No poetry, please.

Confessions of an apathist

As a dyed-in-the-wool party switcher, my sympathies go out to Republicans, Independents, and Nonpartisans in the Everglades. Not for them the pre-Primary party rallies and free eats. No strategy confabs with county candidates. Nothing much to palaver about other than the weather and the Russian pipeline.

The reason I can sympathize is that for years I was an unenrolled Apathist. Never mind that there's no such word as apathist for someone who's strongly apathetic. If you're not registered it doesn't matter what you call yourself.

The slogan of the Apathist is: "Don't tell me if I don't vote I can't complain." The platform of the Apathist is that any taxpayer has the right to gripe and you hardly ever meet a disenchanted taxpayer, let alone get to be one.

There's a distinction between being an Apathist and just plain apathetic. Anybody can be apathetic to politics, merely by being disinterested and noninvolved. An Apathist is political — totally involved in being noninvolved. An informed Apathist can tell you exactly why it's useless to vote for any individual running for office.

It was during the late 60's when I was first stricken with apathism (not to be confused with apathy), a condition I suffered from through all of the 70's. Even now I get a little wobbly when I enter a voting booth. It was during a presidential election when three candidates were on the Florida ballot. One of two was certain to win in Florida. My man was predicted to be the sure loser.

In a family strategy planning session, it was recommended I vote for one of the two probable winners rather than my favored loser because my vote was sure to get zilched before the electoral vote was cast, it was pointed out to me.

AILS

AND WHAT NOT

"If you insist on voting your choice," warned one of my nearest and dearest political advisors, "You might as well stay home."

Weighed down by the logic of it all, I went to the polls on election day with clenched teeth, feeling I had to pick between two candidates, neither of whom I supported. At the last possible moment, my finger refused to press the lever for anyone but my choice. My advisor was right, I could have stayed home. So I did. For the next ten years.

Being an Apathist during the election season is a lonely experience. Not only don't you get to go to rallies, your best friends won't even discuss politics with you because you won't put your ballot where your mouth is. (How can you, your foot's already there.)

So this year I dropped out as an Apathetic and registered to vote.

I couldn't find anybody who wanted to talk about the Russian pipeline.

29 YEARS AGO
THE BELLE GLADE HERALD
SEPTEMBER 6, 1962

Former Golden Ram standout Bill Burke returned to coach the Belle Glade High School football team and was reading his team for the first game of the year.

Burke had also been a standout tackle on the University of Florida football team before working as a freshman coach for the Gators.

Burke said he was looking for a lot from such Belle Glade High players as Tommy Close, Hub Spooner, Didi Mills, Eddie Buckner and Frank Kruse.

Capt. Ross W. Winne and his family arrived from Ft. Benning, Ga. for a visit with his mother, Mrs. Ross Winne before leaving the States for duty in Korea.

The family spent the weekend in Key West before returning to Belle Glade.

A 22 percent increase in student enrollment was recorded on the first day of classes in the Glades area.

Belle Glade High showed an enrollment of 793 for grades 7 through 12.

City Manager Royce Owens said city planning had to receive more emphasis in the future.

Owens said a storm sewer study had just been completed and that wherever city streets were complemented by curbs and gutters, storm drainage should also be included.

A state bureaucrat told an audience in West Palm Beach he would no longer issue permits to install septic tanks in the Glades.

David B. Lee of Jacksonville, director for the Bureau of Sanitary Engineering of the State Board of Health, was quoted as saying he'd tried or years to keep people from moving to the Everglades and that the people who needed his help most didn't want it.

Florida Trend: Graham a shoo-in Bob Graham, the 38th governor of Florida, appears to be a shoo-in for re-election, and he's sure to carry the business vote with him, according to Florida Trend's September issue. As one Florida business leader who's voting for Graham puts it, "If it ain't broke, don't fix it. So why change governors?" Certainly, business had lots of doubts about Graham when he came to the governor's office. But his commitment to diversifying Florida's economy by bringing in more high-technology manufacturing, finance and trade has been a pleasant surprise. In all probability, that will be the voter's judgement as well in the November election, says Florida Trend. Governor Graham is a popular incumbent whose running an intelligent, professional campaign. His popularity is evident in all segments of our diverse state -- from the Panhandle to the Everglades, from condo dwellers to farm hands, from Big Labor to Big Business. By contrast, the governor's Republican opponent -- U.S. Rep. LaA. Skip Bafalis -- seems to be stumbling through his campaign, and public opinion polls show him trailing far behind. The governor's widespread popularity can be attributed to his success in serving up a mixture of programs with something for everybody. For business, he has delivered an impressive number of new jobs and an enlightened economic development program. For conservatives, he has pumped millions of dollars into law enforcement.

Hillery delegate to Atlanta convention

BELLE GLADE—Ladies and gents desiring the latest in beauty care might consider making an appointment with Hillery's Beauty Salon, 613 S.W. 14th St.

Mrs. Annie L. Hillery, owner and operator of the salon recently returned from the 1982 Bronner Brothers International Beauty Show held at the Hyatt Regency Hotel, Aug. 21 through 24.

Mrs. Hillery, a licensed master cosmetologist said this is the seventh International Show she has attended.

She said N.H. Bronner, Sr., president of the Bronner Brothers, Inc., presided over the four day convention. The convention included health seminars, championship hair styling contests, fashion shows, trade shows, workshops, and continuing education classes in cosmetology.

Mrs. Hillery said over 100 major distributors of hair and beauty products designed for black men and women set up exhibitions at the International Beauty Show.

While at the convention Mrs. Hillery attending several continuing education courses on the Fuller Wave, Revlon Fabu-Laxer with no lye, and the Versi Curl System by Carefree.

Mrs. Hillery said the opening night program was held at the Peachtree Plaza Hotel Grand Ballroom, and Sunday's session opened with convention delegates attending church services.

Mrs. Hillery is a member of the Realistic Cosmetologist Association of Belle Glade. She serves as treasurer of the local organization.

Also attending the convention was Mrs. Christine Allen, of Boynton Beach, formerly of Belle Glade.

New choral groups at CDS

BELLE GLADE—Two new choral groups have been added to the music program at Christian Day School, according to school officials.

The mixed chorus, consisting of 34 seventh through ninth graders, are currently working their first musical production. The girl's chorus is also working on several pieces of music, including the musical "Walk in Love," which will be performing with the mixed chorus at the First Baptist Church of Belle Glade October 17, at 7:30 p.m.

Other scheduled events include the Christmas program "Love Came Down at Christmas" on December 5 at the church.

Members of both choirs will be participating in a bike-a-thon to raise funds for the Christian Day School music program. The bike-a-thon will be held Saturday, September 11, at 9 a.m. Anyone interested in sponsoring a choir member should contact the school office.

Lowe retires after 30 years

BELLE GLADE—After going to the same school for 30 years, Jesse Lowe finally graduated to retirement.

Mr. Lowe, a custodian at Lake Shore Elementary School since September 1952, retired Tuesday, August 31 with the Palm Beach County School System.

Principal E.H. Fitzgerald and staff members of the school surprised Lowe Tuesday with a retirement celebration.

A native of West Palm Beach, Lowe was presented with a plaque of "appreciation for 30 years of dedicated services," from Mr. Fitzgerald.

The staff presented Lowe with fishing tackle equipment. Mr. Lowe said he plans to spend much of his time "enjoying one of his favorite hobbies, fishing."

Also on hand for the retirement party was Mr. Lowe's wife, Sarah.

The operator of a local beauty salon, Mrs. Lowe said when asked the question will Mr. Lowe help out at the beauty salon, with a smiling face she said no.

Mrs. Lowe said family and friends gave Mr. Lowe a retirement dinner on Sunday, Aug. 29 at the Lowe's home, 552 S.W. 13th St., Belle Glade.

Assisting Mrs. Lowe with the dinner were daughters Blonzell S. Bridges of Belle Glade and Barbara S. Spencer of Pahokee.

Mr. Lowe began his career with the Palm Beach County School board under the supervision of the late Mr. Charles M. McCurdy, former principal of Lake Shore Elementary School.

Keeping the Faith

by
Rev. Joe McGahey

"This is how we know that we love the children of God: by loving God and His commands. This is love for God: to obey His commands, and His commands are not burdensome, for everyone born has overcome the world, this is the victory that has overcome the world, even our faith."

I John 5:2-4NIV
How do we respond to God's love? These words give us the directions and benefits of responding to that love.

The first response and benefit of course is that we become a child of God. We are born into a new relationship with God. This of course is what Jesus meant when He told Nicodemus in John 3:7, "You must be born again." He was speaking of a spiritual birth, that enables us to be a child of God, whereby we belong to the family of God. We are born into our earthly families with earthly parents and we are "born again" into the Family of God.

The second response and benefit is that love for the rest of the family, the children of God. A family without love is a tragedy; it is not really a functioning family. For it is love for each other that holds the family together. This same thing is true for the Christian family, which is the true church of Jesus Christ. All too often though, a church is made up of people who do not know each other, or care about each other. They just do not love each other. That is a tragedy. As the family of God we need to develop a deep love and concern for the other member of that family.

The third response is, "to obey His commands." This means we live under the authority of God. In the New Testament there is not any such thing as being a Christian and living in disobedience. All through the New Testament we read "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and be saved." That sounds pretty light, until we learn what this word "believe" means. The word "believe" in the New Testament is not talking about mental assent. To believe means commitment, commitment to the point of obedience. Without obedience there is no belief. Jesus put it another way, "Love the Lord thy God with all your heart...soul...and mind." If we do that we will obey, we will do what God wants us to do.

The benefit of this response is that, "His commands are not burdensome." I am always hearing people talk about the impossibility of living a Christian life. It is not altogether easy. But when we commit ourselves to God and His way in love for Him, then we also come to love His ways. The person who is not committed to God does not like or want to do God's will in their lives. But when we come to love God we also come to love His will. That is what keeps the commands of God from being burdensome.

The final benefit listed here is that of "victory." As this passage says "For everyone born of God has overcome the world. This is the victory that has overcome the world, even our faith." Christians are supposed to live in victory. To begin with we are to live in victory over sin and guilt. God does not excuse our sin. But He does forgive us. This means all of our past sin and guilt and the burden of it is taken away because Jesus Christ paid the price for our forgiveness. But this also means we have victory temptations. There are some temptations that within ourselves we will never overcome, but in Christ Jesus there is victory. "Who is this that overcomes the world?" Only he who believes that Jesus is the Son of God.

(I John 5:5 NIV)

Cupidettes visit islands

BELLE GLADE—Members of the Belle Glade Chapter of the Cupidettes Club, Inc. recently toured Grand Bahamas.

Cupidettes making the trip were Dorothy G. Oliver, Edith Henderson, Josephine Nelson, Barbara Ann Williams, Catherine Linda Singleton and Sanjena Clay Rogers of the Palm Beach Chapter of the Cupidettes Club, Inc.

Also taking the trip were Lucy Rockmore,

Roy Rogers, Vera Gibson, Sharon Butts, Willie Henderson and Henrietta Brailsford.

While in the Bahamas, a surprise birthday party was given to Mrs. Rockmore, a former Media Specialist at Lake Shore Middle School. More than 50 persons were in attendance, according to Mrs. Oliver.

"It is nothing like visiting the Bahamas," stated President Oliver.

Lee said during a hearing, which was attended by Belle Glade City Engineer John Pickett, said developers asking for permits should think about installing water distribution and sewer collection systems.

Six officers of the Organized Reserve Corps returned from two weeks of summer training camp.

The officers, all members of the 318th Logistical Command with headquarters in West Palm Beach, received their training at Camp Rucker, Ala.

The command was something new in the Army, coordinating the supply and administrative services for combat teams in the field.

The officers were Major Maurice Fletcher of Clewiston and Major E.M. Lively, Capt. W.A. Wooten, 1st Lt. Emmett Roberts, 2nd Lt. George Wedgworth and Warrant Officer Junior T. Harris, all of Belle Glade.

Two former Belle Glade High football stars, Bill Burke and Ross Winne Jr., began training at the University of Florida.

Burke and Winne both had earned football scholarships to play for the Gators.

40 YEARS AGO THE EVERGLADES NEWS AUGUST 28, 1942

Frank O. Hobson was appointed principal of Belle Glade schools after 11 successful years as athletic coach, science and history teacher at Pahokee High.

Hobson succeeded former principal L.W. Bartlett, who accepted a job teaching mathematics and engineering at Palm Beach Junior College.

The results of the town marshal race in Pahokee wound up in court when E.O. Murphy filed suit demanding to know by what right Haywood Baxter was holding office as the city's police chief.

Baxter was declared winner in the five-man race in May when he polled 226 votes to Murphy's 225. Also in the race were J.B. Elliott, Fred A. Simmons and W. Lee Rawls.

Murphy claimed two of the absentee ballots which put Baxter into office were illegal. He also claimed all the absentee ballots were illegally counted and should be thrown out.

Murphy had recently moved to Miami where he was employed by the United Nations as a policeman. The Pahokee city charter required the holder of the office be a qualified elector.

Members of the Pahokee Lions Club had been responsible for collecting 22 tons of scrap iron in a drive, according to Joe Hatten, chairman of the drive.

Money collected in the drive, which was expected to total about $100, was to be donated to the local defense council.

P. Paul DeMoya, chairman of the council, said a total of 100 tons of scrap iron had been collected in the area.

30 YEARS AGO THE EVERGLADES NEWS SEPTEMBER 9, 1932

One of a group of Filipinos, who had left the Canal Point area several weeks previously at the demand of a group of white men, was beaten and a camp where four of the Filipinos were living in Indian town was burned.

The trouble, according to a front page story, began with an altercation between one of the Filipinos and a guard of a group of convicts being boarded on a train to take them out of the path of a storm.

"The guard being engaged with the care of the convicts," the story read, "white men dealt with the Filipino in summary fashion."

The Filipinos left the area and that night, their camp was burned, the story went on, "though whether the fire was set by the Filipinos themselves or by others is not known."

An estimated 3,000 of the permanent upper Everglades population of 9,000 left the area the first of the week to get of the path of a storm forecast for the area.

Pahokee were closed in fear of threatened flooding and loss of life but the panic apparently didn't reach the Clewiston and Canal Point areas.

The expected storm also slowed down the first of planting for the year's vegetable crop. The weather was excellent, according to the story but storm warnings left farmers uncertain whether to plant or not.

The editorial expressed concern that the upper Everglades would be overrun with out of work people during the coming winter months.

"Our resident gamblers and bootleggers will make a mistake if they welcome such as patrons of their businesses or harbor, encourage or defend them."

"There have been sufficient expressions of opinion to justify this newspaper in saying that Canal Point and Pahokee are not going to be wide-open towns this winter - neither wide open for the gamblers and bootleggers, white or black, who live here or for the newcomers."

"Public sentiment does not favor the collection here of a fund to feed beggars and tramps. County authorities, welfare workers and others, will do well to prepare a concentration camp away from the Everglades for persons who have no employment. Soup kitchens and chain gangs years ago proved to be an effective way of handling the indigent who will not work and the criminal who try to live off of the labor of the industrious."

Dealing with season changes in plants

by Gene Joyner
Urban Horticulturist
Palm Beach County

As the weather changes, people are noticing changes occurring in many plants in their landscapes and some of these changes confuse people or make them think something is seriously wrong when, in many cases, they are only dealing with normal seasonal occurrences.

With the high temperatures we have been experiencing lately, it is very important that plants be watered adequately; otherwise, many types of plants will wilt and die from lack of water or having leaves discolor.

Some types of plants also may increase the frequency of bud drop or fruit loss simply because of the high heat.

Many types of plants also are more susceptible to changes or fluctuations in soil moisture. Allowing plants to get dry may result in leaf loss or discoloration.

People that tend to overwater to try to compensate for the dry conditions sometimes make the mistake of watering too frequently which mixes root damage and may result in dieback and discoloration of the foliage.

Large trees, particularly acacias, bischoffias, black olives and mahoganies, show increase leaf drop at this time of year and this is a normal seasonal occurrence.

One way to determine whether or not a change is something to worry about is to check the new foliage on your plants. If the new leaves are healthy and show no signs of problems it is not usually something that you should become concerned about simply because some of the older leaves are dropping off.

If all the leaves, regardless of their age, are showing signs of discoloration or necrosis, this would indicate a problem serious enough for you to have to take some type of corrective measures.

Sometimes stress caused by heavy pruning or transplanting will cause plants to drop a lot of foliage and if you are doing these types of chores now make sure that plants are not pruned excessively.

In transplanting trees or shrubs, water lightly but frequently the first week or two to help them get established more quickly. Shading the plant may also be beneficial if it has a large canopy of foliage and has lost a big percentage of the root system during the transplanting process. Be very careful when applying pesticide during this hot weather; otherwise these may damage spray or flowers. Spray only in the cool parts of the day, early morning or late afternoon.

Also, do not use chemicals on the wrong plants. Check the label directions carefully to make sure the product is safe for the particular plant it is to be used on.

Church bounces back after fire

FIRE gutted the interior of the Sunday School building, causing more than $10,000 damage. Crafts and equipment for the church's annual fundraising bazaar was also destroyed.

By GLEN GIFFORD

The Reverend Ray Brown and his wife Viola were folding clothes in the parsonage of the Lake Harbor United Methodist Church Saturday, Aug. 14, when they heard the explosion. Thinking two tractor-trailer rigs had collided on the highway, Brown raced out to the back yard to have a look. But the highway was out of view through the sugar cane field between the church and U.S. Highway 27. So Brown went back inside to resume with the laundry.

A few minutes later he stepped back outside and noticed that the Sunday School building behind the Lake Harbor United Methodist Church where Brown presides had caught fire.

"We called the fire department and started to wet down a trailer next to the building," Mrs. Brown said. "A young man came driving by, stopped, and got the neighbors' hose. I started calling other people and by the time the fire trucks came we had a lot of people out there helping."

Apparently, a blown light socket caused the blaze. The Browns, who only that day had returned from five weeks in Alabama, are grateful they were home at the time.

"If we hadn't been here, the flames would have gone right through the church and the trailers," Rev. Brown said. "We're very lucky, and we thank the Lord for that."

The damage to the building was extensive, more than $10,000, according to insurance adjusters. While insurance will cover most, if not all rebuilding costs, the fire also threatened one of the church's only means of revenue: its annual November bazaar. Hand-made crafts and equipment for the annual fundraising project, all stored in the Sunday school, were all destroyed.

"We have a lot of talented people who put their time into those things," said Norma Schneider of Clewiston, who helps plan the bazaar, which last year earned more than $5,000 for the church.

"Their talent got burned."

"It was a numbing experience. I knew all that work was uninsurable. We can't even remember all things that burned up. It makes me sick."

The church itself, sitting just a few feet from the Sunday School was spared, except for some smoke damage to the exterior. Recent renovations to the tiny church had depleted the congregation's building fund, meaning that rebuilding the Sunday School will have to wait.

"We kind of overextended ourselves putting good siding on the church," Schneider said. "We let our checkbook get low, thinking we'd have the bazaar to pick it back up."

But the bazaar is still on for the Saturday before Thanksgiving in Belle Glade. The ladies of the church, headed by Schneider, Martha Lynn Weed and Molly Norman, have redoubled their efforts. They have called northerners who migrate to the area each winter, asking them to bring crafts and other salable items with them. With a core of only 37 year-round members, Schneider

Ayako Uchiyama

Japanese dancer opens season

BELLE GLADE—Japanese dance performer Ayako Uchiyama will open the season at the Dolly Hand Cultural Arts Center, according to July Schiele, director and coordinator of the center.

Ayako Uchiyama will be featured on Wednesday, Sept. 8 at 8 p.m. She will perform various traditional Japanese dances.

According to Mrs. Schiele, Ayako Uchiyama's talents constitute a rare tableau of Japanese culture.

Born and raised in Hokkaido, the northernmost island of Japan, Miss Uchiyama was recognized early in life for her original research into the culture of the Ainu, Japan's aborigines and for her unique treatment of their songs and dances, and as a result she won national critical acclaim and the coveted 1955 "Hokkaido Cultural Prize."

Later, under the guidance of Kuzue Mizuki of the ancient family of celebrated Kabuki actors, Miss Uchiyama concentrated her artistic energy on mastering traditional Japanese dance and absorbing the principles of Japanese drama.

When Martha Graham met her in Japan, she invited Miss Uchiyama to America. Since the U.S. Government granted her a visa as a cultural exchange artist, she has become known for her perceptive views on Eastern art as revealed in her Japanese theatre film-lectures as well as in her dance-drama concerts.

Tickets to the performance are $1 and are on sale at the Registrar's office. For more information call 996-3055.

REV. and MRS. BROWN stand at the doorway to their "little white church in the Glades."

Continuing Education courses offered

BELLE GLADE—Palm Beach Junior College Glades Center will offer several Continuing Education courses during the fall semester.

Courses to be offered includes:

•DEFENSIVE DRIVING—Begins Sept. 13 at 7 p.m., cost $20.

•CAKE DECORATION—Begins Thursday Sept. 23, cost $12.00.

•BASIC CERAMICS—Begins Monday, Sept. 16, cost $18.00.

According to Judy Schiele, a number of workshops for nurse certification will also be held during the fall semester. Interested nurses may register now.

Crockett retires after 27 years with AREC

CROCKETT RETIRES AFTER 27 YEARS. Dr. Joe Crockett, extreme right, accepts Mrs. Elizabeth Crockett. Looking on is director of the AREC Center. Engraved cane knife from Dr. J.M. Good.

By ALMA HENRY

BELLE GLADE—Approximately 50 family members, friends, and co-workers of Dr. Joe Crockett, gathered at the Agricultural Research Educational Center on Friday, Aug. 27, to say farewell and re-tell old stories at a retirement reception held in Dr. Crockett's honor.

Dr. Crockett, a resident of Belle Glade, and a Associate Professor (Animal Geneticist) joined the University of Florida AREC staff in 1953 as an assistant herdsman. His entire 27 year professional career was spent with the University.

Dr. J.M. Good, center director said "Dr. Crockett is the most unusual man he has ever known."

"He is the only professor to go to the Gainesville campus and asked to be transferred back to Belle Glade," said Good.

Dr. Good said Dr. Crockett transferred back to the Belle Glade center to establish one of the "finest cross breeding animal programs in the state."

Dr. Crockett is best known throughout the state for his research with cross breeding animals with the Seminole Indians.

Among those present at the reception was Fred Smith, president of the Seminole Tribe of Florida, Inc., whom Dr. Crockett worked closely with a number of projects.

Dr. Joseph Orsenigo of the Florida Sugar Cane League also attended the reception.

Dr. Crockett co-workers presented him with a Kodak Camera, a book of more than 25 letters from prominent agricultural and business associates.

Among those who wrote letters were Dr. Findley Pate, of the AREC Center; W.C. Burns of the United States Department of Agriculture; Stanlo Johnson, of the Seminole Tribe of Florida, Inc.; and Joe Clayton, U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Dr. Good presented Dr. Crockett with an engraved cane knife. A tradition Dr. Good started at the center for retirees.

Dr. Crockett told those gathered, he will be joining Barfield Ranch in Labelle as the company's chief breeder.

"During my 27 years at the station (AREC) I made lots of friends. Everybody has been good to me. Joining Barfield Ranch will give me the opportunity to use many of my research applications in a commercial venture," Crockett said.

Also in attendance at the reception was Dr. Crockett's wife, Elizabeth Crockett and son Dick. Mrs. Crockett was honored with a retirement reception on Aug. 24 by the Palm Beach County School Board.

The agency administers one of the most diversified Title XX child care programs in the state. The program offers parents services in four directly operated centers, a network of family day care homes and securing placements in the private sector.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David (Annie Pearl) Hill of 601 S.W. 13th St., Belle Glade and the granddaughter of Willie Ree Smith and the late Mrs. Anna Smith of 300 Canal St. (Raidville). Miss Hill is a former student of Lake Shore Elementary School and a graduate of Gladeview Elementary and Glades Central High School.

Barnie Waker runs State Farms

Insurance plays a major role in Barnie Walker, Jr.'s life. He believes in it, loves it, talks about it constantly and sells it for State Farm Insurance.

Walker, who has an office at 417 West Sugarland Highway, came to Clewiston in January of this year. He has been in the insurance business for 13 years.

Walker also believes State Farms has an excellent health insurance policy and noted that the company increased health care limits from $250,000 to $1 million in July.

Before getting into the insurance business, Walker spent 23 months in Vietnam as a naval aviator, but his diplomatic manner and pleasant personality hardly reflect the fact that he is a battle-hardened combat veteran.

"I believe in selling myself to a client first before I sell him or her an insurance policy," Walker said. "If a client has a problem, I'm the first person he or she calls."

He pointed out that in the insurance business, "it's imperative that the client has confidence in his or her agent, adding that 'selling insurance is a 'service' that can't be seen or heard by the client."

According to Walker, State Farm Insurance offers auto, homeowner's life and health insurance.

He emphasized that a person should receive a family insurance "check up" at least once a year and said he offers his new clients as well as those that have been with the company for years the check up. "It only takes 30 minutes," Walker said. "Full coverage" is somewhat a misnomer, Walker believes, because sometimes "full coverage" doesn't mean a person has adequate coverage.

He cited cases in which a person has $10,000 worth of car insurance and runs into a Cadillac that sell for $20,000.

"For a few more dollars the person could have been "fully covered," Walker said.

Church

"The bazaar won't be as big," she said. "But we had some things stored at other people's houses, so not everything was destroyed."

Despite the misfortune, both the Browns and Schneider expect the closeness of the small congregation to bring the church through the experience intact.

They remember to thank friends who have helped since the tragedy, such as the Calvary Methodist Church in Lake Harbor. They also like to describe a song they sing during Sunday services: The Little White Church in the Glades.

"When we first got here eight years ago, they started singing that song, and we wondered what was going on," said Mrs. Brown, who then launches into a verse a cannella.

Come, come, come to the church in the O come to the church in the Glades.

There's no spot that's so dear to my childhood
As the little white church in the Glades.
There are plans to rebuild the Sunday School, though actual construction will probably have to wait awhile.

"We'll build it larger," Rev. Brown said. "We were going to redo the kitchen anyway. But we're taking our time. We'll have to raise the money first."

"This set us back a little bit. But it's for a reason I guess."

The Browns even brought a humorous story out of the fire. Early that afternoon, they had put a roast and potatoes into the Sunday School's oven, hoping to keep their own kitchen cool.

"We forgot about it until after the commotion died down, Mrs. Brown said. "Later, we remembered and pulled it out of the oven. It was cooked perfectly. We had it for supper."

Anyone who would like to contribute to the bazaar or building fund should contact Martha Lynn Weeks in Lake Harbor.

Kemp completes recruit training

Marine Pfc. Preston S. Kemp, son of Leon J. and Irene A. Oknewski of 124 Greenstar Ave., Pahokee, has completed recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S.C.

During the 11 week training cycle, he learned the basics of battlefield survival. He was introduced to the typical daily routine that he will experience during his enlistment and studied the personal and professional standards traditionally exhibited by Marines.

He participated in an active physical conditioning program and gained proficiency in a variety of military skills, including first aid, rifle marksmanship and close order drill. Teamwork and self-discipline were emphasized throughout the training cycle.

Miller returns from deployment

Navy Electronics Technician 2nd Class Elisha J. Miller, son of Marguerite Miller of 285 S.E. Fourth Ave., South Bay, recently returned from a deployment to the Mediterranean Sea.

He is a crewmember aboard the guided missile cruiser USS South Carolina homeported in Norfolk Va.

During the six and 1/2 month deployment, his ship participated in various exercises with other 6th Fleet units and those of allied nations. Port visits were made to Italy, Morocco

co, Tunisia, Spain,
Gibraltar and Greece.

Boy Scouts recruit drive

The Gulf Stream Council, Boy Scouts of America will officially start its '82 Annual Fall Recruiting Drive on Sept. 1 according to Church Potter, Council President.

The theme will be '60th Anniversary Roundup '82' in commemoration of the 60th year that the Gulf Stream Council has been in operation (1922-1982).

Highlights of the Fall Roundup program will start on Thursday, Sept. 9th with School Night for Cub Scouts. At most elementary schools, boys and their parents will have the opportunity to sign up as a Cub Scout and learn more about the program. Flyers will be sent home through the schools giving the locations.

Boys in the 6th grade and up can join a Boy Scout Troop at Troop

Open House programs that will be conducted from Sept. 23 through 29. All boys 11 years and older are welcome and encouraged to join the fun and outdoor adventure of Scouting.

Teenage boys and girls can join the Exploring Program which is the teen division of the B.S.A. Explorer Posts are organized around many different types of career interests and hobbies.

The Fall Roundup will run from Sept. 1 to Dec. 31, 1982 and special recognition will be given to boys already in Cubbing, Scouting and Exploring who recruit one or more new members during the roundup. Adult volunteers are also needed.

For additional information, call the Council Service Center at 844-0279.

GCCH offers strings instruction

BELE GLADE-Strings instruction will be offered for students in Grades Central Community High School for anyone in public or private school fifth grade and above if there is sufficient interest.
